SCIENTISTS.....

As you can read...in this newsclipping from today's newspaper...the ionosphere vanished over Hawaii at the time of the earthquake there last April. According to scientists, this was so mysterious as to "smack of science fiction."

As you will note...from the attached file...June 7 letter to you...I was working to cause such an earthquake at that particular time...but in northern California. (Disregard mention of demonstration for Stanford Research Institute in that letter...I cancelled that project a few days after xeroxing, because of personal reasons.)

Also, once again...I enclose copy of my Nov. 12, 1971, letter to you...notifying you of my intent...to produce "demonstrations in the skies and heavens overlooking our earth..."

This was brought out again in enclosed letter to you of August 9, 1972.

And, let me point out...I have documented, on two different occasions...extreme weather phenomenon caused by my other-dimensional work and in collaboration with the Si's (UFO entities). You have it in your files.

Now here again...once more...you have another indication of my powers; and my powers linked together with the UFO entities. Add it up.

I notified you that I would produce phenomenon in the skies and heavens overlooking earth.

Then I notified contacts that I would produce an earthquake within a certain time period.

One was produced...off-target somewhat, but in the time frame specified...

AND AT THE TIME OF THE ~~XXXXX~~ EARTHQUAKE THE IONOSPHERE VANISHED!

Something that has deeply shocked and mystified the scientists.

Truly, a phenomenon produced in the skies and heavens overlooking the earth, wouldn't you say?

And before closing...please note that the Navy's Omega Navigational System...long-wave length radio signals employed to guide ships far at sea, "began drifting and not making any sense."

Sound familiar to you? Heard it somewhere before, but you just can't quite recollect? Let me refresh your memory.

Years ago...a flight of military planes left Florida and flew out into the Bermuda Triangle. They vanished (like the ionosphere over Hawaii.)

But even more amazing...before vanishing...they managed to radio they had lost all sense of direction...their instruments had gone crazy.

Remember? Fit these two pieces of the puzzle together and they match.

And keep bearing in mind that a team of NASA scientists found a UFO base inside the Bermuda Triangle...the team led by "Dr. Wright".

If you are deeply interested in Truth...and fact-finding re the UFO mystery...and PK ManI linked up with the UFO's...put all of the above together...and think about it.

quake that shook Honolulu last as the strongest in 100 years, and it comes out that it may have been the largest ever. It was the day the ionosphere disappeared, and scientists have yet to explain it.

By Frank Carey

Associated Press

HONOLULU

EARTHQUAKE SCIENTISTS say some mysterious happenings—smacking of science-fiction—occurred in the atmosphere about an hour before a major temblor rocked the largest of the Hawaiian Islands last April.

"It's too much like Buck Rogers—we have no explanation for it yet," says Dr. Augustine S. Furumoto, of the University of Hawaii.

"Perhaps it was just coincidence, but that earthquake had many peculiarities associated with it which deserve the attention of seismologists."

An hour before the earthquake rocked the coastal town of Hilo on Hawaii Island—about 200 miles southeast of Oahu Island, where Honolulu is located—he said these events occurred:

- The radiowave-reflecting layer of the ionosphere some 50 miles above Oahu "suddenly disappeared—that is, for some odd reason, the layer did not reflect radiowaves sent up from the ground."

- The Navy's "Omega Navigational System," a sophisticated system of long-wavelength radio signals employed to guide ships far at sea, "began drifting and not making any sense."

But then, "right after the earthquake, the ionosphere began reflecting again. As I say, it was too much like Buck Rogers...."

"As for the Navy's 'Omega,' which had begun drifting about an hour before the earthquake, it hit its maximum drift just about the time of the occurrence of the quake and then began to recover...."

The April 26 earthquake, centered offshore about 12 miles northeast of Hilo and about 35 miles deep, registered 6.2 on the Richter scale—the same reading recorded for the temblor that virtually leveled the Nicaraguan capital of Managua some months ago.

It was the strongest 'quake to strike the Hawaiian Islands in more than a century and apparently only its off-shore origin prevented more serious property damage and human injuries.

As it was, buildings were damaged in downtown Hilo; there were several injuries; and there were numerous landslides in suburban Hilo. And buildings shook in downtown Honolulu, 200 miles to the northwest.

In the latter connection, Dr. Furumoto said another peculiar thing about the quake was that "our (seismographic) instruments ... in Oahu ... kept on vibrating...."

"The ground vibrated for about two hours ... (after the quake was first registered) ... whereas it should have died off in about a half-hour or 45 minutes...."

"We're still trying to figure out the reason for this."

Furumoto said detection of the missing ionosphere before the earthquake was an unexpected outgrowth of a new University of Hawaii research project.

The venture is aimed at developing an "innovative, reliable warning system" for tidal waves, or "tsunamis."

The quest is based on findings by university researchers that a certain type of earthquake shock-wave called a "Rayleigh" wave, long known to be a precursor of tidal waves, can be detected in the atmosphere as well as in the ground.

That is, while certain Rayleigh waves are transmitted horizontally through the earth, some others sometimes "rise" vertically and are transmitted upward through water and the atmosphere as sound-waves.

And these vertical risers—resulting from earthquakes that fracture the ground in an up-or-down direction as distinguished from sideways sliding—are rated as the ones associated with major tidal waves.

Furumoto said these vertical-risers spread upward to the ionosphere—the blanket of electrified air that acts as a reflector of radiowaves from the earth—and, in effect, leave characteristic "fingerprints" in the ionosphere.

Finally, these "fingerprints" can be detected by special radio signals sent up from ground stations.

The scientist said that, an hour before the earthquake occurred, radio signals of the latter type, which were being used in routine experiments in the tidal-wave venture, began failing to return.

And this, he said, provided a tip-off that the ionospheric blanket—at least above the Oahu stations—had temporarily disappeared.

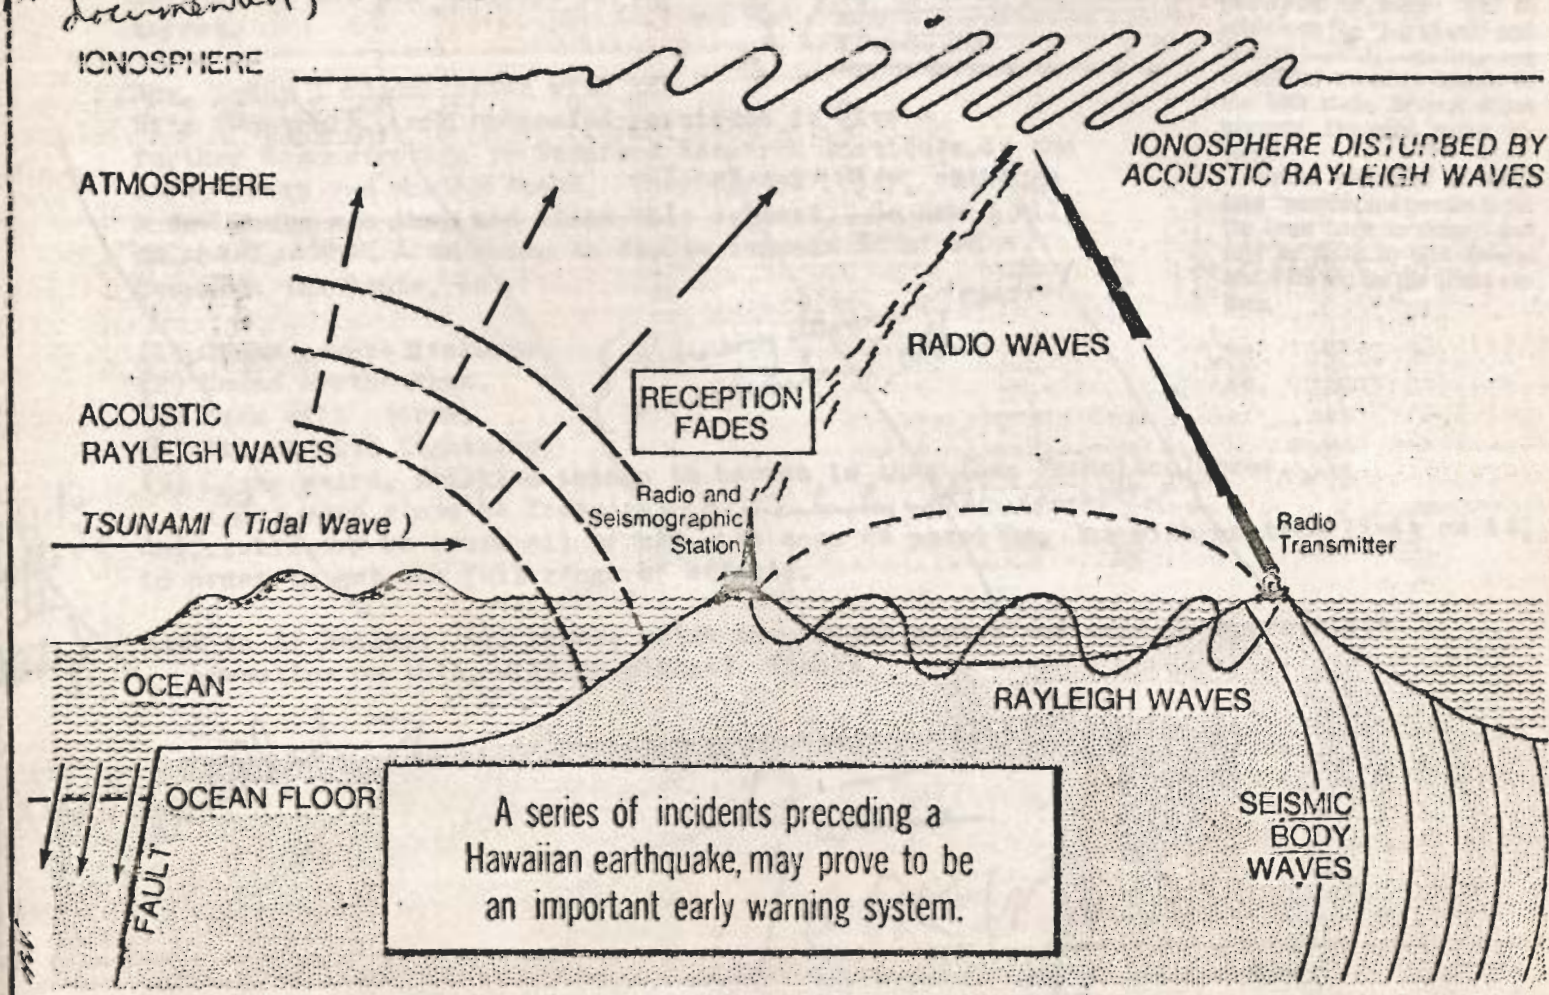

It also provided scientists with another mystery to probe.

Strange Things Happened Before Honolulu Quake

*This quake happened when I threw PK mechanisms at northern California to cause a quake!!
(Previously documented)*

TIDAL WAVE: A RADIO WARNING?

TO MY SEVEN SCIENTISTS...

I made these earthquakes happen. See enclosed copy of letter to Al and Piler Bailey, dated March 11, 1973. I had also notified Stanford Research Institute, and others...that I would to produce quakes.

It took over 30 days...but well within my 60-day limit.

Four quakes measuring 3.5 on the Richter struck below San Francisco.

Below there, the Mexican coast was hit by a 5.0 quake.

And Hawaii was hit by a quake that "shook the island like a rug."

My "target shooting" therefore, was a bit off...but I did hit the target, if not the bullseye of the target.

Now, today I communicated with the Si's (Control)...and requested permission to give a further demonstration to Stanford Research Institute in the days, weeks and months ahead. They agreed today, although a few weeks ago they had nixed this request. So now I will go ahead. What I am going to do, to impress Stanford Research Institute, is:

- (1) Cause power-blackouts.
 - (2) Cause earthquakes.
 - (3) Make wild storms.
 - (4) Attack with lightning.
 - (5) Cause weird, freakish things to happen in that (San Francisco) area.
- (That word above is Freakish) - particularly water-connected.

And...will try to cause all of this...as soon as possible, but with no time limit on it, in order to get the full range of effects.

Note to Al Bailey: Al, please watch the Frisco papers and send me appropriate newsclips on this, will you please? Thanks.

ve. April 12, 1973 Temblor Shakes Mexican Coast

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — An earthquake shook the southwestern coast of Mexico Wednesday morning registering 5.0 on the Richter scale. There were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

The Geophysics Institute of the University of Mexico said its seismograph recorded the quake here at 6:51 a.m.

in either bombing.

April 12, 1973 Fontana Quake

FONTANA (UPI) — The fourth earthquake in two weeks shook the Fontana-Rialto area west of San Bernardino, measuring 3.5 on the Richter scale.

One Rialto man was knocked out of bed, but otherwise there were no reports of damage.

All the recent quakes, including the latest one Tuesday night, registered between 3 and 4.5 on the scale.

$3 Million Damage Toll From Quake

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — Clean-up and repair began Friday as the damage toll soared to the $3 million mark from a rumbling earthquake which "shook this island like a rug."

Teachers straightened out four schools closed in the aftermath of the worst quake in Hawaii in two decades while merchants cleaned up stock shaken off shelves and covered broken windows with plywood.

Mayor Shunichi Kimura of Hilo, the city of 26,000 which suffered the brunt of the Thursday temblor, said reports from outlying area of the "big island" of Hawaii had pushed the damage estimate above $3 million. He said extensive damage to homes occurred in the remote regions.

The quake flattened one building, hospitalizing a man who was briefly trapped inside with a broken leg, damaged hundreds of homes and 11 schools on the "big island" and swayed buildings and triggered landslides on other islands in the 50th state. Several dozen persons reported minor injuries.

Kimura estimated it would take "months and months to get the town back in shape" and said he plans to seek federal and state aid for the quake victims.

Dear Al and Pilar...

PS... I am going to make an earthquake in the San Francisco/northern California area within 60 days. As a demonstration for scientists. Necessary wear your discs and you're okay.

am getting off today the disc to Esperanza in Venezuela. It's in the envelope, and will go to the post office in 10 minutes.
Thank you.

Tell you what, Al. Forget my lecture at the college. All I want to do...is just train a few, select pupils while I'm in California soon. The Si System is priceless to my pupils. A man I just trained...who'd been all over the world...just wrote and told me that what he'd learned in the 3 days here... had been the best thing in his whole life. He also sent me a gift, a Panasonic cassette recorder...which is a dandy. Jim Ferguson, in Ohio. My pupils...are an elite corps...and very valuable to the Si's, since they get advanced mental training...thus superior minds.

The reason it is necessary...for future pupils to send in their donation in advance...is because I'll need to find out whether I fly or drive out there.
There's a difference, and it will depend on the monies I receive in advance.

Tell me more...about the radio messages you received in 1952. Go into detail, Al.

My family will not be coming. I'll be much too busy training pupils...to try and cope with the problems of transporting the family.

You mention the TV station...I've been on 34 TV programs thus far, so am familiar with them. Haven't seen a TV station yet that wouldn't put me on with a day's notice, once they see my documentation and find out I'm for real.

Will enclose some forms in case you get any response from your newspaper ads.
Your ad could go: "Ted Owens (PK Men), world-famous psychic and co-worker with UFO's, will be in Chico soon, to personally train pupils in ESP, autohypnosis, etc. For details write Mr. Al Bailey, etc." When they write...simply return the form letter to them. If you need more, let me know, Al.

~~XXXXXXXX~~

You and Pilar will get 10% of my earnings there...because you are acting as my informal agents. Okay? Line up ten pupils and I will train any three members of your family free.

Best wishes...

Ted Owens
